WILL SELL BONDS OF I. O. O. F. HOME

Delay Payment on the Three Links Building

Incorporation Papers Must Come
From Frankfort Before School Board Receives Money.

PARTS OF LOTS MAY BE SOLD.

Final payment of $17,000 will be due on the Longfellow building July 23, but the Odd Fellows who purchased the building will not be prepared to settle with the school board. The note will be carried for a few weeks or until the Odd Fellows are ready to pay. Delay in receiving the incorporation papers will be responsible partly for the failure of the lodge to meet the obligation on time, as 30 days or longer will be required for this purpose. They must be filed here and then forwarded to Frankfort where they will be approved. When they are returned, the lodge can issue bonds, the proceeds of which will be used in making the final payment to the school board. The lodge has $5,000 or more in the treasury now to make a partial payment July 23.

Consideration of the proposition to sell off some of their property at Fifth street and Kentucky avenue has been revived in the lodges. The Kentucky avenue corner lot and a lot in the rear of the building on Kentucky avenue probably will be sold. All the bonds issued by the lodge will be readily sold in Paducah, as several offers have been made for them. They probably will be sold at a premium.

SMALL CRACKS ARE CAUSE OF EXCITING REPORTS

Small cracks in the Broadway wall of the Palmer house coupled with the roping off of part of the pavement this morning gave birth to the rumor that the hotel had been damaged by heavy settling, but the pavement had been roped off to allow two small windows to be cut in the second and third floors for bathrooms. When the hotel was remodelled last winter, these two windows were not cut and the work is being done now. Space on the Fourth street side of L. B. Ogilvie & company's store on Broadway, was roped off this morning to permit repairs on the roof.

STOCK CO. OPEN.

"Other People's Money" Bill or Tonight at the Casino.

Manager Melone announces "Other people's Money" as the opening bill for his stock company at Wallace park tonight. The company comes well recommended and produces standard plays. The women of the Episcopal church have engaged the house for Friday night, so there will be no show on that date.

Mrs. B. G. Tilley.

Mrs. B. G. Tilley, 32 years old, wife of the well known plasterer, died this morning at 1:20 o'clock of consumption after an illness of ten months. She had been bed ridden for several weeks preceding her death. She was born in Tennessee, and had been in Paducah about ten years. She was married several years ago and leaves a husband and one child; also three sisters and one brother. The funeral will be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence, 400 North Fourteenth street, services to be conducted by the Rev. Calvin M. Thompson, pastor of the First Baptist church. The burial will be in Oak Grove cemetery.

Four Burned.

Burksville, Ky., July 8.—Four persons were burned, one perhaps fatally, and one was injured by jumping in a fire, which destroyed the Burksville hotel and several other buildings last night. H. H. Harris, of Nashville, was one of the injured.

RUNS INTO POLE TO SAVE CHILD

Swerving suddenly to avoid running down a small boy at Seventh and Madison streets, W. C. Latimer, of Atlanta, Ga., the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wallace at Ellesley, their country place, ran his automobile into a telephone pole Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, throwing him out and bruising his face and hands. The automobile was broken in the front slightly and had to be taken to the shop. The boy dashed out into the street, as Mr. Latimer approached the corner, and the only way to avoid a collision was for him to turn into the

NOT FOR CHICAGO.

Chicago, July 8.—Chicago politicians are making no effort to get either of the national conventions for this city. They express the hope that neither of the big conventions will come to Chicago, and are actively at work to prevent it. Unless the commercial interests volunteer sufficient funds the convention is not deemed desirable.

WAGONS BLOCKADED SUNDAY.

Wagons drove up to the ice factory on First street yesterday morning at 9 o'clock to get ice. They waited and more wagons drove up. Still there was no movement among the wagons at the ice chute and more wagons drove up. This continued until First street was blocked with ice wagons and the first famine of the summer was on. Many of the wagons did not get their loads until 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

The demand for ice Sunday jumped far ahead of the available supply. The wagons kept calling for ice until the machines scarcely turned out a cake before it was loaded on a wagon. This was kept up all day, no surplus at any time accumulating in the factory and this morning the same situation confronted the wagons. Fortunately Saturday being a hot day everybody bought liberally and the famine was not so severe Sunday. Today the ice had melted in almost every chest and the delay in delivering the ice caused many heartaches to housekeepers from their meats and vegetables spoiling.

The ice company made vigorous efforts to start up the South Third street factory this morning. Labor for some reason is hard to get and the factory could run with but a small force. Plenty of laborers are loafing, but they won't work. The demand for ice has jumped almost without warning to the highest point of any previous summer. With both factories running there will be no trouble in supplying any demand.

In addition to the increase in demand from housekeepers the meat men, grocers, soda fountains and saloons sent rush orders for large weights to the ice companies, while the steamboats also increased their orders. Several were delayed in leaving today because they could get no ice.

LEXINGTON MAN LOSES BIG ROLL

Mayfield, Ky., July 8.—(Special) —Receipts of the recent race meet aggregate $10,000 and there were more than 13,000 paid admissions. This will make the association come out with a clear profit. T. L. Hardesty bookmaker lost $330 at Hotel Hall Friday night. He went out and left the money in the room. When he returned it was gone. Hardesty lives at Lexington.

Mrs. Rilla Covington, 65 years old, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. H. A. English, Twelfth and Monroe streets, Sunday afternoon at 12:30 o'clock of a complication of diseases. She had been an invalid five years. Mrs. Covington was the wife of Dr. James Covington, of Woodville, who died several years ago. She resided near Woodville the greater part of her life, and was well known and generally popular in that section. She leaves the following children: Messrs. Will, Thomas and James Covington, and Mesdames H. A. English and W. M. Baldry, of this city. John Evans, of Metropolis, is her brother. The funeral was held today at noon. The burial was in the Newton Creek cemetery near Woodville.

TO ASSESS FINES OF STANDARD OIL

Chicago, July 8.—The Standard Oil company defied Judge Landis today and said "Ignoring the gossip of the streets and of the mob, and depending upon the fundamentals of law, we interpose no further objection to the court's proceedings other than to state our innocence of a violation or intent to violate the law." Judge Landis took the assessment of fines under advisement and will render a decision August

OVERCOME BY HEAT ROUSTER WALKS INTO THE OHIO RIVER

Excessive Heat Made Pete
Cosby Sick and Last Night
He Started Ashore After a Doctor and Tumbled off Joe Fowler

BODY IS UNDER WHARFBOAT

Stupefied by Sunday's excessive heat, Pete Cosby, a roustabout 18 years old, walked off the steamer Joe Fowler lying at the wharfbot last night at 9 o'clock and was drowned, though ropes and hooks were in easy reach of his grasp. He fell between the Joe Fowler and the wharfbot while attempting to get to the wharfbot, and when he rose to the surface first, a cant hook was shoved right beside his head by Harry Blackford, night river manager of the West Kentucky Coal company, who shouted to him to catch hold. He sank and when he rose again a fellow roustabout threw a rope across his shoulders but he failed to notice that. He never rose again and is now under the wharfbot. Like the coal carrier who came-walked to his death a few weeks ago at the wharfbot, his body probably will come to the surface as the falling river sends the wharfbot down the levee.

Cosby shipped on the Joe Fowler Saturday night at Henderson. It was his first trip on a steamboat. Sunday afternoon heavy work on the boat almost prostrated the hardened workers and made Cosby extremely sick at the stomach. Starting to the city last night it is supposed to get medicine, he miscalculated the gang plank and stepped overboard.

Crazed By Heat.
New York, July 8.—Temporarily maddened by heat, Milton Alevin, a plasterer, attacked fellow workmen with a hatchet today, and cut three of them, two fatally, before he was knocked unconscious.

NAVAL AND ARMY MEN THINK IT MEANS WAR.

Washington, July 8.—Naval and army officers are using the Japanese situation as almost the sole topic of discussion. The opinion is divided as to the outcome of sending a fleet of battleships to the Pacific. "If Japan thinks she can whip the United States," remarked a naval officer, "I should not be surprised if she regarded the projected move of the battle ship fleet to the Pacific as a hostile act and declare war."

Mrs. Nannie McGuire.
Mrs. Nannie McGuire, 47 years old, wife of Mr. Richard H. McGuire, a prominent resident of Elva, Marshall county, died Sunday morning at 1 o'clock of dysentery. She was well known and prominent in that section and leaves a husband, three sons and four daughters. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The burial was in the Bolton cemetery near Syracuse.

BETTER NOT LOOK; HOTTER'N HOTTER

Everybody Stayed Inside Yesterday—Don't Know How Well They Were Dressed—
Last Night Worse

AND YET IT IS ONLY 98 DEGREES

Whew! Wouldn't you like to take a shower bath under Niagara Falls today? Or shoot-the-chutes in a bathing suit over Yosemite Falls. It wouldn't be bad just to get the plain hose turned on you, anything to cool off.

Hot as it was yesterday scarcely a prostration is reported in Paducah. It was so hot the people didn't get out into the sun to get prostrated. But when twilight came, it was like an ant hill attacked. Every house gave forth its human inhabitants and the street cars took them up.

The government observation showed Sunday to be one degree cooler than Friday, when the temperature was 98.

As early as 7 o'clock this morning the heat was excessive, and as the day advanced it grew hotter. The earth hardly has time to cool over night, which accounts for the suffering caused in a comparatively reasonable summer temperature of 98. Listlessness marks most of the faces seen on the streets today, enervated by a poor night's rest from the heat.

HOT YESTERDAY.

Sunday was so hot that automobiles and gasoline launch enthusiasts did not get out until after sundown. Few people ventured out except the churchgoers. Congregations were good yesterday. During the morning several gasoline launches went out on the river but soon returned. Only those having an awning top braved the rays of the sun. Several automobiles were out in the afternoon, none bare of tops, and comparatively few buggies were seen, livermen reporting a remarkable falling off of patronage until after sundown. In the evening Deal's band gave a second concert at the park, and the park was packed from early in the evening until late. Soda water dispensaries did a thriving business all day yesterday.

MARSHALL COUNTY DRY WITHOUT ANY DOUBT NOW.

Benton, Ky., July 8. (Special.)—At the special election in the Fifth magisterial district, where there was some question as to the legality of the local option election, the district went dry 3 to 1. There was no question of the outcome, as the election was arranged by the temperance people to make assurance doubly sure.

TOBACCO POOL SUCCEEDS IN CLARK COUNTY S. OF E.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., July 8.—The Clark Society of Equity has contracted with the Cincinnati Warehouse company to finance the tobacco crop of 2,500,000 pounds. Cincinnati tobacco people will advance $100,000. This insures the success of the 1907 pool.

MORE IMMIGRANTS COME TO PADUCAH

Sixteen Arrive to Purchase Farms Near City

Herr Huttig Says Others Are on Their Way to Join Colony on Benton Road.

BUILDING HOME OUT THERE.

Sixteen more German and Austrian immigrants arrived in Paducah yesterday and are staying temporarily at the St. Nicholas hotel. They accompanied Herr Huttig, who owns 159 acres six miles from Paducah on the Benton road. Herr Huttig, who arrived several weeks ago, is already engaged in building homes for them out there, and as Herr Huttig has options on several adjoining tracts others will purchase nearby, forming the nucleus of a settlement. They will engage principally in truck farming, it is understood, although they will undertake to diversify their crops.

Herr Huttig came here early in the spring and after studying the situation returned to Austria after more of his fellow countrymen. He says others are on their way, and Me-cracken county seems assured of a steady stream of immigration. The sixteen in this party consist of the men and their families. They are of the better class of farmers, and have money sufficient to purchase land.

ALLEGED BOOTLEGGER GOES TO TRIGG COUNTY.

W. H. Tatt was arrested Sunday by Sheriff Howell and Shelby on a capias issued from Trigg county, and today will be taken back to Cadiz by Marshall H. H. Cox. Tatt was charged with being a fugitive from justice and turned over to Marshal Cox this morning. He was fined in Trigg county for selling whisky without a license, one fine $75 and the second $50.

FIVE APPLICANTS FOR PHARMACIST'S LICENSE.

Five applicants from Paducah will be examined tomorrow at Dawson Springs for certificates by the state pharmacy board. They are Messrs. Walter Farrar, Gilson's drug store; Allie Roberts, Oehlschlaeger's store; Vernon Watson, Bacon's store; Arnold Coleman, Lang's store, and Claude Wallace, McPherson's store.

Fined For Attacking Finley.

Henry and James Bell, Douglas Pryor and Harry Wallace, all colored, charged with attacking J. S. Finley at Gregory Heights last week with picks and shovels, were tried by Magistrate C. W. Emery this morning. Henry Bell and Douglas Pryor were fined $50 and costs each and the other two were dismissed.

Transfer Agents.

District Manager A. L. Joynes, of the Cumberland Telephone company, left this morning for Kuttawa to make a transfer of agents. Mr. W. H. Irwin, agent for the company at Kuttawa, will be transferred to Fulton to take the place of Agent O. S. Evans, transferred to Kuttawa.

Reynolds' Dies.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 8.—L. A. Reynolds, president of the miners' union at Montlake, who was shot yesterday by Labor Agent Bellows, as the result of a quarrel over non-union miners, died this morning.

BURNS ARE FATAL TO MRS. OLDRIEVE

Greenwood, Miss., July 8.—Mrs. C. W. Oldrieve, wife of the well-known water walker, died here yesterday in the King's Daughters' hospital, as the result of burns received on the night of July 4. Her injuries were not regarded as serious, and consequently her death was unexpected. Her husband left here yesterday morning for Paducah to fill an engagement and so far all efforts to reach him by wire have proved unavailing. Unless he is located her remains will be buried here tomorrow.

Mrs. Oldrieve and her husband gave an exhibition on the river here last Thursday night, and while she was engaged in exploding some fireworks on a flatboat a lighted fuse set fire to a package of powder and ignited her clothing. She jumped from the boat, but on the wrong side, and did not get into the water. When rescued and the flames smothered, it was discovered that she was burned about the face, side and limbs, much of her clothing being burned off. She was immediately taken to the hospital and given attention.

NAVAL MANEUVER CAUSES WAR TALK

How Japan and Europe View Movements of Squadron

It is Said President Roosevelt Is Giving Demonstration of Mobility of American Fleet.

RUSSIA WITH US ALWAYS

Tokio, July 8.—The confirmation of the report that a powerful battleship squadron would be sent to the Pacific coast has been generally received with calmness, though there is some surprise in certain quarters, which is well versed in diplomatic niceties.

It is said that the sudden change of the program in the case of the Japanese training squadron last January, when it was first intended that its voyage should include San Francisco and other Pacific coast cities, was evidently in deference to the wishes of the Washington government and were made known to the Tokyo authorities in an indirect but unmistakable manner. The change of the route was decided upon only a couple of days before the squadron sailed.

It was thought then that Japan acted wisely in avoiding a course which might have proved injurious when the strong anti-Japanese sentiment was prevailing in San Francisco. Though officially stated that the despatch of the battleships to the Pacific coast is not directed towards Japan, it is felt here that it is most inopportune when an attempt is evidently going on to impair the traditional friendship between Japan and the United States. Though the slightest apprehension is not entertained here, it is thought that it would be better to defer, at this moment, anything that would be open to the slightest suspicion of provocation, especially while a portion of the American public is thought to be oversensitive over the present state of relationship of Japan and the United States, brought about by the prejudice against the Japanese in that section of the latter's dominion.

To Startle the World.

Oyster Bay, July 8.—The significance of Rear Admiral Brownson's addition to the somewhat meagre information which has come from President Roosevelt regarding the contemplated two ocean maneuvers of the Atlantic battleship fleet, is regarded here as having been overlooked in the comment, expert and otherwise, which has since been indulged in on both continents. Admiral Brownson came to Oyster Bay Friday to take lunch with the president, professing entire ignorance of the maneuvers planned. When he left Sagamore Hill to take the train for Washington, the admiral had one thought, which he wished emphasized: That it was desirable and important to demonstrate to the world how quickly the American navy could transfer its fighting strength from one ocean to the other. This was distinctly an addition to the president's previous statement issued through Secretary Loeb, wherein the object of the maneuver was said to be an exercise movement for the benefit of the navy to perfect its training in fleet exercise on an extended scale, the purpose of the effect of the plan being for the benefit of the navy alone.

President Roosevelt now proposes to give the world a somewhat startling demonstration of what the American navy is capable of doing to protect either or both extended shores of the United States. As Admiral Brownson said: "There is no time like the present for such a demonstration," a time when the United States is at perfect peace with every nation.

In everything that has come from the president regarding the movement, it has been indicated that the fleet wherever it may go is to be brought back to the Atlantic coast.

and that the return is to be as great a demonstration of speed as the outward journey.

Japanese Admiral Insults.

Tokio, July 1.—The Hochi this morning prints an interview with Admiral Sakamoto in which the admiral is quoted as follows:

"Should hostilities break out between Japan and America, the result would be the indecisive owing to the want of proper bases of operations. Such bases as exist are too distant for practical purposes. Even the nearest bases, namely Pescadores, Cavite and Manila are 600 miles from one another. Even if the Washington government should decide on war it is doubtful whether Americans serving in the navy are sufficiently patriotic to fight."

"American naval officers are brilliant figures at balls and social gatherings, but they are deficient in professional training and practice. It is too much to expect burning patriotism in the American naval service in case of war with Japan. It is likely that most of the crews would desert or leave the ships."

Europe Keenly Interested.

London, July 8.—The present tension between the United States and Japan is exciting the keenest interest among European diplomats. None of them, however, believes that it will reach the stage of warfare, because of the heavy burden of debt that Japan is carrying, as a result of the failure to obtain indemnity from Russia, forbids her embarking on a similar costly enterprise in the next decade.

Russia With America.

St. Petersburg, July 8.—The developments in the Japanese-American situation up to the present have received surprisingly little attention in Russia.

Public opinion generally refuses to believe that there can be any misunderstanding between the United States and Japan, still there is no doubt that an outbreak of hostilities would be popular in Russia. The weightiest opinion, however, is to the effect that a Japanese-American war would be inopportune as the Russian financial condition with respect to the army and navy is so disorganized that Russia for a long time will be unable to take advantage of the opening.

One of the diplomats who took part in the Portsmouth peace conference said today: "Russian sympathies are entirely with America, but the moment has not come when a Japanese American war would be advantageous either to America or to Russia."

Japan Will Refuse.

Washington, July 8.—The Japanese government will not consent to the renewal of the present treaty with the United States which expires July 17, 1911, if this government reserves the right to insert a clause in the compact excluding Japanese coolie labor from continental United States, according to semi-official advice purporting to give the views of Foreign Minister Hayashi, which were received today from Ootaki Yamaoka, personal representative of Count Okuma, leader of the progressive party.

"Sir!" exclaimed the key co-ed, after the kiss had been stolen, "how dare you! No man has ever kissed me before." Oh! that's all right," replied the nifty student, "Somebody had to break the ice."—Wisconsin Spin.

BLUES VICTORS IN SUNDAY GAME

Metropolis Boys Defeat Independents 5 to 1

Several Hundred Fans Watch Games and Two Women Quarrel in Grand Stand.

SCORES OF THE BIG LEAGUES.

By a score of 5 to 1 the Metropolis Blues defeated John Hollan's Independents at Wallace park Sunday afternoon in the presence of several hundred fans, many Metropolis people being in evidence. The game was loosely played at times, but some good feature work was seen on both sides.

At 3 o'clock the game started. Dye and Doyle worked at the points for the visitors, and Hart and Block for the Independents. Hart showed good form at the start and allowed but few hits. The Blues were unable to find him until the fifth inning, when a bobble or two followed quickly by a hit tallied 3 runs. Up until this time the locals had made but one score, which was all they got, the Blues settling down and playing a hard fast game.

In the seventh inning Dye was coming in from third base when Block received the ball from the infield. Block tagged the runner in the stomach so hard that Dye rolled on the ground unable to draw a breath. He recovered and went to first base, Gregory finishing the game in the box.

One feature of the game not furnished by the teams amused fans in the grand stand. A young woman from Metropolis let her anger get the better of her in an argument with a local fan of her own sex. Each invited the other out of the grand stand for a settlement with hat pins and finger nails, but neither went, and the incident soon passed.

The line-up:
Independents—Ripley, rf.; Davis, lf.; Hessian, cf.; Brahe, 3b.; Lloyd, 1b.; Taylor, 2b.; Hart, p.; Block, c.; Winfrey, ss.

Blues—Doyle, c.; Dye and Gregory, p.; Gregory and Dye, 1b.; Raimeyer, 2b.; King, 3b.; Fawlkner, ss.; Craig, lf.; Shaw, cf.; Ward, rf.

The score:
Independents R H E 1 5 5
Blues 5 8 5
Batteries—Dye, Gregory and Doyle; Hart and Block.

Fast Colored Team Coming.

Ben Boyd, manager of the Paducah Nationals, has arranged a series of games with the New Orleans colored team, said to be one of the fastest in the south. They will play the first game Sunday afternoon, starting the game at 1 o'clock. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday games will be played.

Baby Mine

Every mother feels a great dread of the pain and danger attendant upon the most critical period of her life. Becoming a mother should be a source of joy to all, but the suffering and danger incident to the ordeal makes its anticipation one of misery. Mother's Friend is the only remedy which relieves women of the great pain and danger of pregnancy; this hour which is dreaded as woman's severest trial is not only made painless, but all the danger is avoided by its use. BRONSTON SHOT AT COL. MILWARD

Bunch of Keys Saved Life of Latter Saturday

Business Differences Said to Have Been Cause of Trouble Between Them.

WELL KNOWN IN THIS CITY.

Lexington, Ky., July 8.—Charles J. Bronston, formerly commonwealth's attorney at Lexington, and at one time state senator from this district, created great excitement here Saturday afternoon by firing four pistol shots at Col. W. R. Milward, a prominent undertaker and warehouseman of this city. The shooting occurred on the corner of Second and Broadway, in the heart of the city and attracted a large crowd.

Neither of the shots took effect, and after the shooting colon Bronston pocketed his pistol and went to his home, which is about three blocks away. Colonel Milward, who is said to have been unarmed, proceeded on his way in the opposite direction.

Colonel Bronston's wife, who was Miss Belle Wisdom, a Paducah heiress, has been in Paducah for the past four or five months.

Colonel Milward, with an order from Mrs. Bronston, went to the Bronston residence to remove some furniture to his warehouse. Colonel Bronston objected to his taking the furniture away and hot words passed between them.

Bronston's Version. Mr. Bronston met Mr. Milward at Second and Broadway and Milward is said to have nodded his head as if to speak to Bronston, who told him that he did not care to speak to him and a quarrel ensued.

No one was near and the principals each gave a different version of the affair. Milward gave out a statement in which he says that when he offered to speak Bronston attacked while they were engaged Bronston high, striking him with his fist and fired four times, three shots going wild and one shot striking Milward in the hip, but was stopped by a bunch of keys in his hip pocket.

Meeting on Street.

In his version of the affair Bronston says that when they met Milward who was leading his little grandson, attempted to speak to him, whereupon he told Milward that he did not want to speak to a man who had acted so dishonorably with him. During the argument the lie was passed and according to Bronston Milward attacked him and knocked him down and was advancing on him to stamp him when he fired four shots while down on the pavement.

Bronston says that he fired at Milward's legs, as he did not want to kill him, adding that he could easily have killed Milward by firing at his body.

The incident attracted a large crowd, but no one attempted to interfere with Colonel Bronston. He coolly pocketed his pistol after he saw that his aim was bad and walked down the street.

Immediately after executing bond to appear before Judge Riley Wednesday morning, Bronston and Milward met again at the corner of Short and Market streets, but were surrounded by friends and no words passed.

Just as Bronston started to enter the door of the Trust building to go to his office he encountered Stanley Milward, eldest son of Colonel Milward and a war of words ensued between them, but before either could resort to arms or strike the other, they were separated and taken to their respective offices.

If you keep this medicine on hand you will never see anything else but smiles on his face. Mrs. S. Blackwell, Okla., writes: "My baby was peevish and fretful. Would not eat and I feared he would die. The McKinley Tomb at Carlton, O.

The $500,000 McKinley tomb at Carlton, O., is rapidly approaching completion. Construction was begun in the spring of 1905, and the corner stone was laid on November 16, 1905.

The architect and contractors express confidence that it will be completed to the last detail by the early autumn of 1907, the time set for the dedication of the tomb.

The mausoleum is 98 feet in height and 79 feet in diameter. The grand stairway, which constitutes the principal approach to the tomb proper and is an essential part of the design, is 75 feet in height.

The principal material employed in the construction of the monument is pink Milford granite, which has been utilized not only for the exterior of the mausoleum, but also for the steps and balustrades. The interior of the memorial is finished in light-gray Knoxville marble, with a honed surface.

The sarcophagus is to be of black polished granite. The rough walls of the edifice throughout are constructed of concrete, reinforced with steel, as necessary and faced with the materials above indicated.

Architect Magonigle's design, which was chosen by a jury from those submitted in competition, shows great sobriety of outline and detail. He rejected the frequently suggested exterior columnar treatment, not only as being too rich in motive, but as likely to confuse the mass unduly when seen from a distance, and chose a form described in the Ohio Magazine as "circular domical wall architecture."

The columnar treatment, which was barred from the exterior, is, on the contrary, employed most effectively in the interior, where it assists in a reader comprehension of the scales of the edifice. The lighting is entirely from above. A double sarcophagus is to be provided, as Mrs. McKinley will rest beside her husband.

Twenty-six Acres in Tract. The site is a tract of twenty-six acres, forming the crowning eminence of the picturesque West Lawn cemetery. The pilgrim to the last resting place of the dead president finds spread out beneath his eyes a varied landscape, beyond which lies the whole panorama of the city of Canton.

In the general arrangement of the approaches to the tomb there is a suggestion of a cross and a sword—a symbolism which has been deemed peculiarly appropriate in a memorial to one who was a martyr and a president in time of war. One of the most conspicuous features of the whole scheme is the introduction of what has been technically denominated a long water, an artificial lake or basin directly in front of the mausoleum, in effect not unlike the prairie forming the avenue of approach to some eastern shrine.

The basin, which is more than 500 feet in length, widens gradually as it approaches the memorial, broadening from 35 to 65 feet, so that the vista includes the whole width of the steps that rise directly from this water pathway to the main entrance to the tomb. It is the function of this quiet basin to reflect the architectural composition beyond, and thus doubly to impress the vision upon the mind of the beholder.

Another supplementary feature that contributes in no small degree to the effect is the presence of a statue of the late president at the head of the staircase and about fifty feet in front of the facade of the mausoleum.

As a sort of portal to this patriotic Mecca there is a circular plaza. This plaza is, however, without any treatment other than a parapet wall and the disposition of the trees, it being felt that being merely a turning point the attention should not be held by anything here. From this circle the approach to the monument is of great beauty. The oblong lake or basin previously mentioned is the central feature and is bordered by two avenues shaded by trees.

It is assumed that visitors in carriages will take the central alley of the three, which slightly diverge on leaving the circle, and will draw up at the foot of the basin for a distant view of the mausoleum, thence passing up one of the side alleys to the esplanade at the base of the grand staircase.

Various approaches for pedestrians have been provided, and there is also a well-arranged connection between the main approach and the system of drives in the cemetery. The tomb itself is not more than a mile from the lines of the principal railroads passing through Canton, and is therefore within plain view of thousands of travelers.

The original plan contemplated dedicatory exercises on the anniversary of the funeral of the late president, but it is probable that in order to assure the presence of President Roosevelt as orator of the day, a later date in September will be chosen. The program will include, of course, the transfer of the body from its temporary resting place in the receiving vault at West Lawn to its final abiding place in the sarcophagus of the memorial, and as escort for this last sad journey there will be an impressive civic and military pageant.

The body has reposed since the day of the funeral in a vine-clad vault not far from the entrance to West Lawn cemetery. This shelter is the public receiving vault of the cemetery, but was given over to the purpose of a McKinley tomb upon the death of Canton's most distinguished citizen, while a public-spirited Cantonian turned over his private vault to the cemetery authorities for receiving purposes.

The McKinley vault has been almost continuously from the day of the funeral to the present time embanked with flowers. Tributes have come from every quarter of the globe, and there have been laid on the casket at frequent intervals floral remembrances from the late president's associates in Washington and from his successor in the white house.

To this house of silence the invalid wife whom the late president cherished so fondly came every day until her death and on almost every visit she brought a cluster of the carnation for which the kindly statesman showed so marked a preference. The was department has maintained about the vault a military guard of honor, made up of a detachment of United States Infantry.

A Great Swimmer.

A remarkable swim by an 8-year-old horse, says a Kildysart telegram, is occupying the attention of the local inhabitants. It appears that a farmer named Morgan Macmahon, who lives on a small island in the estuary of the Shannon, took the horse by boat to the mainland, and after working it all day, turned it loose in the evening with a number of other horses.

When the owner awoke next morning, what was his astonishment to find the faithful animal peacefully grazing near its stable? It was wet as from a swim, and there is not the slightest doubt that the horse had swum all the way from the mainland to the island, a distance of a little less than three miles. —Pall Mall Gazette.

SCHOOL FIGURES ARE ENCOURAGING

More Than Half Million Census For Kentucky

City and Rural Schools and Scholastic Population of First District.

PER CAPITA IS INCREASED.

For the year 1907 there are 6,309 more school children in Kentucky than during the year 1906, according to the returns received by J. H. Fuqua, state superintendent of public instruction. With the exception of Trigg county every one of the 119 counties has sent in a report and in the calculation for this year last year's figures are used of Trigg county.

The census shows a total school population in the counties, exclusive of the cities which have their school systems separate, of 590,928. In the 24 cities that have their school systems separate from the counties, in which they are situated, there are 148,712 children of school age, making a grand total in the state of 739,640.

Superintendent Fuqua is elated over the increase shown for the year and predicts the cause of education is on a wave of advancement in Kentucky which will carry it to still better things. Rough calculations of the per capita for the schools this year show that it will be well over $3, which is in excess of last year's amount.

For some of the counties in the first district the population is: McCracken, 3,789; Hickman, 3,371; Graves, 3,789; Ballard, 4,069; Caldwell, 602; Caldwell, 4,542; Crittenden, 417; Livingston, 3,459; Marshall, 4,988; Trigg (estimated) 5,193. Of all the 119 counties Pulaski with 12,897, reads the list.

In the school population in cities naturally Louisville leads, Covington next with 19,913; Lexington has 11,765; Newport is fourth with 11,196, and Paducah ranks fifth with 6,264. After Paducah Owensboro comes with 4,596. In all of the cities the total school population is 148,712.

WEEK'S EVENTS

C. E. AND Y. P. U. MEETINGS IN WEST AND EAST.

Jap Naval Officers Coming—K. T. Conclave and Peace Conference.

The forecasts of important events of the week follows:

The Christian Endeavor will meet at Seattle, while the Young People's union of the Universalist church will meet at Boston.

Baron G. U. Yamamoto, vice admiral of the imperial Japanese army and minister of the marine, during the Russian war, is expected in New York July 8, in company with five other Japanese naval officers comprising a commission for the study of the latest naval improvements preparatory to refitting of the Japanese navy yards.

The triennial convocation of the grand encampment of Knights Templar at Saratoga Springs, July 7 to 11, will be the first gathering of this order ever held in New York state. Knights Templar from all parts of Europe and America will be present at the convention. Among the foreign guests will be the Earl of Euston, England's representative of the grand commandery.

Several prominent subjects discussed at the international peace conference, at The Hague, are gradually running into shape for adoption, nearly every country that was represented having presented a proposition on amendments to those in which they are interested. Discussion this week will center chiefly on the American proposition for the collection of pecuniary debts and of the inviolability of private property at sea.

Facitious Testator. Will making often affords a man an unrivaled opportunity of paying off old scores and speaking his mind without any fear of unpleasant consequences to himself.

The great duke of Marlborough evidently could not resist the temptation of a farewell "slap" at his duchess when he left her "£10,000 where-with to spoil Blenheim in her own way and £15,000 to keep clean and to go to law with."

There is also a distinct note of spitefulness in the extract from the testament of a Mr. Kerr, who, after declaring that he would probably have left his widow £10,000 if she had allowed him to read his evening paper in peace, adds: "But you must remember, my dear, that whenever I commenced reading you started playing and singing. You must therefore take the consequences. I leave you £1,000." —Grand Magazine.

Clean-Up Sale of

MUSLIN UNDERWEAR

Our Mid-Summer Clean-Up Sale of Muslin Underwear Will Continue All This Week.

THE ready-made goods offered in this sale are much less in price than the raw material of which they are made.

Part of this line was left over from a former drummer's sample sale and part of it is goods that we are closing out.

Not a single garment in the lot is priced at more than the wholesale figures—some at less—and when it is considered that these prices are based on those of a year ago you will readily see what a really attractive proposition we are making.

Material of every class and character has advanced, as much in some instances as one-half, and in view of this fact we fail to see how even the manufacturer could possibly make these garments at the prices at which we offer them.

We mention here only a few of the remarkably low prices that will prevail during this sale:

Gowns 44c, 45c, 48c, 50c, 54c, 58c, 62c, 66c, 75c, 79c, 92c, $1.10, $1.12, $1.25, $1.50.

Drawers 22c, 23c, 25c, 30c, 42c, 50c, 67c, 88c, $1.12.

Chemise from 23c to $2.75.

Corset Covers from 5c to $1.50.

We offer a special discount of 25 per cent or one-fourth on Corset Covers in this sale.

SCHOOL FOR CONGRESSMEN.

Statistics published by the bureau of the department of commerce, and labor show that, while women are invading every human occupation, they have practically banished men from the field of teaching.
Whether or not this abandonment of the occupation by men is to the detriment of the schools, we leave to the contemplation of professional investigators, but we are sincere in the belief that our national and state legislatures will suffer from it.

Where are we to get our congressmen, if not from the teacher's desk of the rural schools?

What sort of men are to take the place of those industrious, intellectual, persistent, idealistic young fellows, who for decades have been called from the blackboard to the bar, and from the bar to the forum?

If today we were called on to prescribe a course of discipline for the development of the statesmen of the future, we should by no means exclude two years as teacher in the rural schools. Nothing else can supply the training, the influence and the associations they receive during the school year.

Consider their environments. Graded from the common school, perhaps, and working to earn money with which to pursue a course in college or supporting himself while studying law, the young man accepts a position in the rural schools.
Ambitious himself to learn, he is sympathetic toward scholars posses-ing of the same ambition. Note the result on another generation following his footsteps; but this must not lead us from consideration of our chrysalis statesmen.

The discipline of a school room gives him moral fibre, strength of will, mastery to command, elasticity, alertness and self-confidence. He is at home in the seat of authority.
Teaching what he has studied gives him a double view of every subject in his curriculum. It inculcates the habit of looking at every question from two view points.

While teaching he "boards around." He is brought into daily home contact with the farmer, whose character he learns to understand.
And they are men, back there in the country, better men, simpler men, more honest men, than we in the city. We may laugh at their old-fashioned notions sometimes, but they possess the character, we should like to see impressed on our statesmen.

It is but natural that the country school trained lawyer should go into politics, because, during his term as teacher he has made the acquaintance of many people in the rural districts. He knows them as no others do, and he has commanded from them a deal of respect, if he has commanded any at all. He has little law practise, but he has a wide and deep acquaintance, and when the farmers come to town on convention day, they just naturally gravitate toward the "young fellow who taught our school." The "young fellow" is the link between the politician and the farmer, and the link is always the successful candidate. It is that link the politician ever is seeking.

It is safe to assume that in nine cases out of ten, the character formed in the rural school room will cling to the budding statesman, and the legislators, who have dominated our congress for years, are of this school.

We do not begrudge the women their occupation, but the nation will sustain a loss, if the young men are driven from the rural schools.

An Owensboro young man failed for a post office position by a shortage of one inch in stature, and the Owensboro Inquirer thinks the examiner might have stretched a point.

Anyway, industrial conditions in San Francisco justify the presence of a war fleet.

Well, if that blind statesman from Oklahoma has a perfect sense of touch, what's the odds?

And now Marvin Hart, erstwhile aspirant for pugilistic honors, has been arrested in Louisville for violating the closing ordinance. Under Mayor Bingham's edict Marvin will have to take the count again.

The man, who seeks comfort and pleasure in the mere gratification of selfish desires, will learn in the end, that his life has been a failure compared with that of the brute creation devoted to the attainment of the same end.

We often wonder just what European people think of us. Consider for instance the way the Rockefeller incident has been treated by the newspapers of this country, and the way that treatment must be received by other peoples, of varying temperaments and habits of thought, and all lacking knowledge of the American character. Rockefeller has been discussed seriously by some newspapers, anxious to make it appear that the federal court would excuse a rich man from witness duty. It has been sung in comic verse, made the butt of the humorist's verse and the target of the paragraphers' darts. Do those people of Europe, we wonder, suppose that the perpetuity of our established form of government depended on the capture of Rockefeller? Do they think the regular army was called out, and that the recent naval maneuvers were related to the chase?
It has been an exciting chase, this running to cover of a rich man. The country has been an interested, applauding audience. The newspapers have supplied the stage effects. We don't care what Europe thinks of us, as long as we are having the fun; but it would add to the humor of the situation, if we could just see ourselves as others see us.

of the man, who burned down his house to get rid of the mosquitoes.
But we doubt if it would succeed any better. We are quite sure the industrial prosperity of the country would be destroyed; but the trusts would be the last to suffer.

CONFEDERATE FLAGS.

Committee of Veterans Completes
Its Report.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 8.—The committee appointed by Major-General Stephen D. Lee, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, consisting of A. C. Trippe, of Baltimore; Samuel E. Lewis, of Washington, D. C.; J. F. Shipp, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Fred L. Robertson, of Tallahassee, and J. Taylor Ellyson, of Richmond, has completed its report on the battle flags of the Confederacy. For the purpose of settling the question of the battle flags, records have been searched, the committee having been at the work for three years, being appointed at Nashville in 1904. There are seven flags designated as official in the report of the committee, these being the stars and bars, the battle flag with the Greek cross of blue, stars of white on a red field, two national flags of white with the battle flag in miniature and three naval flags.
All of these facts have been placed in a booklet called "The Flags of the Confederate States of America," which contains a full description of each. It will be ready for distribution in about three weeks.

REJOICE AT CONSUL'S FATE.

Salvadoreans Assert That American Smuggled in Messages.

Mexico City, July 8.—According to a special cablegram received today from Salvador, the recent removal of American Consul General Jenkins has caused satisfaction in the republic.
An open accusation was made that Jenkins was the organizer and instigator of the revolution in Salvador.
It was charged that Jenkins delivered cables to secret agents of Zelaya in Salvador. These cables, it is said, bore the signature of United States Minister Merry. The government at Washington has demanded an explanation from President Zelaya because of his unwarranted use of the name of a United States diplomatic officer.

Serious Uprising.

Washington, July 8.—St. Petersburg advices say a serious uprising has occurred at Schlesburg, which is causing consternation to the government authorities. There has been a serious clash between peasants and troops sent against them.

Mrs. Mary A. Clark arrived last night from McCool, Mississipp, where she has been visiting her son, Mr. John Clark. She will spend several weeks in Paducah, visiting her son and daughter, Patrolman James Clark, of 1114 South Fourth street, and Mrs. Kilcoyne, 905 Trimble street.

PARTY LINE PHONES FEUD:
BLACK EYES IN ABUNDANCE

Algona, Ia., July 8.—Gossip over a party telephone line, alleged personal remarks made about neighbors, and too persistent listening by people on the line have resulted in a battle, caused a serious feud in Kosciuszko county, and doubtless will end in a long drawn out battle in the courts.

Numbers of the farmers in that vicinity are members of a rural mutual telephone exchange and their houses are connected on the same wire. It is alleged that a good deal of gossiping has gone on over this wire and that some of the people gossiped about have overheard remarks calculated to arouse their ire. The trouble became so pronounced that it was decided to hold a meeting of the subscribers and adopt rules restricting the confidences to be imparted over the telephone.

But this meeting, instead of helping matters, had the reverse effect.
Following heated arguments and acrimonious retorts the gathering ended in a free for all fight. The meeting was held in the district school house and the fight which was started here was continued outside and a number of blackened eyes and disfigured countenances resulted.
Lifelong friendships have been broken, relatives have become entangled. The monster weighs 1-forced a way between the wires.

The Value of Good Health.

There is nothing so priceless as good health. What does it profit a man to achieve all sorts of success if he has not the health to enjoy it?

Good health is easy to have and keep. Ill health is due merely to a violation of nature's laws. Probably few of us deliberately violate the laws of health,—don't know that we have until we are suffering the penalty, and then we seek relief and lose patience if we are not quickly restored. Once you violate nature's laws and are deeply affected, the road to good health is a long and tedious one, with many bypaths leading off.

Osteopathy, however, is the guiding star to good health,—nature's most rational cure. Without the use of sickening, sometimes poisonous, medicines, by scientific manipulation, with resource to proper diet, exercise and fresh air it is the same,
quick return to good health.

I am having great success in curing the ailments local to Paducah, and number among my patients people in Paducah you know well, to whom I should be pleased to refer you anytime for evidence of what osteopathy has done for them, or should be pleased to have you call at my office, 516 Broadway, upstairs, any time for consultation. Dr. G. B.
Froage, phone 1409.

GIRL 11 WEDS BOY 14,
NO ATTENDANT OVER 14.

Knoxville, Tenn., July 8.—In the presence of relatives and neighbors and attended by six of their school friends, Willie Richards and Ella Brook, aged 14 years each, were married this afternoon at the residence of Squire J. W. Brown at Thorn Grove, twenty miles from this city. Squire Brown tying the nuptial knot.

The marriage united the youngest couple ever wed in this state with their parents' consent, and the wedding attendants are the youngest on record.

The attendants were Mayme Mc-Carthy, 14; Frenchie Barber, 13;
Scottie Nipper, 13; Joe Benson Mc-Carthy, 13; Harrison Addcock, 14, and Fred Addcock, 13. The bride carried a bouquet of sweet peas and each of the bridesmaids carried bouquets.

San Diego, July 8.—One of the puzzles man in whose net it had become entangled. The monster weighs 1-

Missing Man Alamo Hero.

Sioux Falls, S. D., July 8.—R. H.
Evans, a well known resident of western South Dakota, has within the last few days ascertained the fate of an uncle whose fate had been a mystery to surviving members of his family for considerably more than half a century.

The uncle, it has been well established after this great lapse of years, was one of the heroes who fell during the massacre of the Alamo, when General Santa Anna, with 4,000 Mexican soldiers, attacked the Alamo at San Antonio, Tex., garrisoned by only 172 Americans, every one of whom died at his post, except seven, who were killed while asking for quarter.

The South Dakota man, by establishing that it was his uncle who fell with the other heroes at the Alamo, as one of his heirs will be entitled to an interest in a land grant of 1,400 acres of Texas land, which was assigned to all soldiers from that state who were massacred by Santa Anna and his troops at the Alamo.

JAPAN USES BIG STICK ON EMPEROR OF KOREA

Seoul, July 8.—The coils are tightening around the emperor of Korea. Japanese authorities possess evidence of certain payments from his personal fund to defray the expenses of The Hague deputation. Fearing the disclosures may precipitate drastic action toward himself, the emperor has been sending to Marquis Ito frantic denials accompanied by assurances of his friendship toward the Japanese policies. Evidently dread of his enforced abdication fills the emperor's soul.

Suitor Sets a Death Trap.

Collinsville, Ill., July 8.—Joseph Genetti is under arrest on a warrant charging him with attempting to poison his first cousin and former fiancée, Kate Genetti. She is a sister of August Genetti, who, with his chum, Louis Cologne, was killed by the explosion of an infernal machine in his tool chest in a coal mine near Collinsville.

Miss Genetti stated yesterday that she believed a former suitor set the death trap. The arrest of Joseph Genetti resulted from an investigation into the death-trap mystery, and the poison charge was brought chiefly to hold him.

Kate Genetti said that while visiting her recently, after she had refused to marry him, Joseph Genetti left with her a whisky flask containing a brown liquid. A few hours later he returned and asked angrily why she had not drunk the liquid. Fearing him she told him she had done so.

"No, you didn't," she says he replied. "If you had, I would know it."

At The Hague Conference.

The Hague, July 8.—Representative Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, president of the American group of inter-parliamentary union, has arrived here and is arranging for presentation to President Neildoff the resolutions adopted at the inter-parliamentary conference in London in July, 1906. These resolutions advocate the establishment of the periodical meeting of The Hague conference, the creation of a permanent consultative council, entrusted with codifying and developing the law of nations; the constitution of an international commission of inquiry for the mediation of one or more friendly powers, in cases of differences between nations; and the inviolability of armaments and the inviolability of private property at sea.

It isn't safe to judge the depth of a man's love by the price of the roses he buys her.

MEMORIAL TO DR. EATON AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

In honor of the memory of the late Dr. T. T. Eaton, one of the great leaders of the denomination, a memorial service was held yesterday morning at the First Baptist church. Dr. Calvin M. Thompson, who knew and was associated with Dr. Eaton, gave a masterly address on the dead leader. For many years Dr. Thompson was assistant pastor at the Walnut Street Baptist church in Louisville. The favorite hymns of Dr. Eaton were sung in the order they were used at the funeral, and the pastor read several of Dr. Eaton's favorite passages and the story of the prodigal son, which was Dr. Eaton's last public reading.

In part Dr. Thompson said: "I do not know why, but it never occurred to me of Dr. Eaton dying. Somehow I never thought of Dr. Eaton and death. It never occurred to me until he had passed away. But death comes to all and will continue to come to all until eternity."

"Dr. T. T. Eaton was born in Murphysboro, Tenn., in December of the year 1845, and had lived until the December of this year he would have been 67 years old. He was educated at the Coalgate university, known then as the Hamilton college. Also he attended the Washington and Lee university, where in an oratorical contest he took the first prize for oratory, and the prize was pinned on his breast by the great general, Robert E. Lee.

"In 1880 the degree of 'D. D.' was conferred on him, and in 1885 the Washington and Lee university conferred on him the degree of 'LL. D.' He was licensed to preach and ordained by the church of Murphysboro, Tenn., in 1869, and his first pastorate—a short one—was at the church at Lebanon, Tenn. Shortly he was called to Chattanooga and from there to Petersburg, Va., where he served five or six years.

"In 1881 the Walnut Street Baptist church, then recognized as the greatest church, was devoid of a pastor. The officers thought of a man and called Dr. Eaton on his record. Nearly every great church does that. The little church is only the training place for the minister. And as pastor he served nearly 26 years.

His Last Speech for Mayfield.
"He left Louisville last Monday morning in apparently good health, and it is true he was a very busy man on Wednesday and Thursday. During the days he frequently spoke of it and his private letters indicate it to have been the best meeting held in Kentucky. His last speech was made last Thursday morning on the subject: 'Baptists and Their Missions in Kentucky.' If that speech is not published our literature will be the poorer. We are hoping we may find it written some place. The association adjourned last Friday morning and the delegates left to catch an early train for home. The clarion voice of Dr. Eaton begged the delegates, that those who did not have to go to linger during the afternoon.

"I lingered for an interview. I was baptised by him and was assistant pastor at his church longer than any one else. From 1 to 3 o'clock I talked with him. As I looked at him I was thankful there were so many years of usefulness before him. He took the train to Fulton and went to church, read the prodigal son and preached his last sermon.

"He was called at 4 o'clock and he went to the station and ate."

Here Dr. Thompson paused in his address to give what may have been the cause of Dr. Eaton's death.

Dr. Thompson related the scene of his death and the vast crowds that met the train at each station until Louisville was reached. "It was a funeral procession from Fulton to Louisville although the train was over two hours late." Pathetically the story of the funeral was told and in the telling Dr. Thompson was visibly affected.

A Tribute.
As to something concerning the man, Dr. Thompson in the conclusion said: "The loss of this man was distinctly a loss to mankind and to Christianity. Mentally he was a peer, and possessed information on every subject. He could see from every side. As a preacher he was unique. Never did I fail to hear something new.

As an editor a fitting tribute was paid and something of the growth of the paper under Dr. Eaton's guidance was related. How people over the country subscribed for the paper to merely read the editorials. It was Dr. Eaton's rule, "When principle is at stake I do not consider the circulation lists." In closing a touching story of Dr. Eaton's life was told and the pastor impressed the motto of Dr. Eaton: "What God could forget I can forgive."

His Recommendation.
A Baltimore man had until recently a darky in his employ—about as shiftless and worthless a darky, says he as ever he came across.

One day the employer, his patience exhausted, called "Sam" into his office and told him to look for another job.

"Will you give me a letter of recommendation?" asked Sam, piteously.

Although he felt that he could not conscientiously comply with this request, the Baltimore man's heart was touched by the appeal. So he sat down to his desk to write a non-committal letter of character for the negro.

His efforts resulted as follows: "This man, Sam Harkins, has worked for me one week and I am satisfied."

Doan's Kidney Pills cure backache.

Cure every form of kidney ills.

John Stanley, farmer, living six miles south of Paducah, Ky., says: "My little boy aged 12 years, has been a sufferer from weak kidneys for a number of years. He did not have any control over the secretions and this caused us much annoyance, especially at night, as they would pass from him without his knowledge. He complained of his back aching him very often and last summer his general health failed him. We were annoyed every night with the kidney difficulty and he complained of his hips and back all the time. We had a doctor from Louisville treat him, but one week he would be better and the next worse. I had often read of Doan's Kidney Pills so decided to give them a trial and procured a supply at the DuBois Son & Co.'s drug store. He took them as directed and at the end of the first week he was much better, as he could control the secretions and the annoyance at night which had caused me so much work and worry was removed. We continued to have him take Doan's Kidney Pills for three months when they had made a most complete cure and he is now strong and well."

A Story of Hogs.

"It's a story of hogs," said John S. Duncan, "hogs in Indiana, when that admirable animal, so necessary to progress and material prosperity, could be seen in every woods pasture. A stranger on horseback riding along a country road saw a lot of hogs acting in a strange way. These hogs would run here and there, first to one tree and then to another, in the greatest excitement. They would rub themselves against these trees and squeal and squeal as though they were possessed, as were those hogs in Palestine that ran down into the sea.

"hogs?" asked the traveler. "What a alrth's the matter with them?"
"Wal," said the farmer in a whisper, "I'll tell ye. Long last fall I lost my voice and couldn't poo-ee to 'em to come and feed, so I took a club and pounded on a tree. This spring the woods is full of woodpeckers, and when they tap on the trees, d-n the birds, the hogs think they're goin' to be fed!" —Indianapolis News.

The Modesty of Women

Naturally makes them shrink from the delicate questions, the obnoxious examinations, and unpleasant local treatments, which some physicians consider essential in the treatment of diseases of women. Yet, if help can be had, it is better to submit to this ordeal than let the disease grow and spread. The trouble is that so often the woman undergoes all the annoyance and shame for nothing. Thousands of women who have been cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription write in appreciation of the cure which they have obtained by the examinations and local treatments. There is no other medicine so sure and safe for delicate women as "Favorite Prescription." It cures debilitating drains, irregularity and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures. It is strictly non-alcoholic, non-secret, all its ingredients being printed on its bottle-wrapper; contains no deleterious or habit-forming drugs, and every natural medicinal root entering into its composition has the full endorsement of those most eminent in the several schools of medical practice. Some of these numerous and strongest of professional endorsement of its ingredients, will be found in a pamphlet wrapped around the bottle, also in a booklet mailed free on request, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. These professional endorsements should have far more weight than any amount of the ordinary lay, or non-professional testimonials.

The most intelligent women now-a-days insist on knowing what they take as medicine instead of opening their mouths like a lot of young birds and gulping down whatever is offered them. "Favorite Prescription" is of known composition. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. 21 one-cent stamps for paper-covered, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound. If sick consult the Doctor, free of charge by letter. All such communications are held in strictest confidence.

The KING of DIAMONDS.

COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY EDWARD J. CLODE.

CHAPTER XIV.
MR. ABINGDON took his departure at an early hour. His excellent wife was indispensed, and her age rendered him anxious.

Philip wrote a curt letter to Sharpe & Smith. He had given thought to their statements, he said, and wished to hold no further communication with either Sir Philip Morland or his representatives.

Then he ordered his private hansom, intending to visit the University club.

It was a fine evening, one of those rare nights when the London air is fresh and cool, and the stars are visible.

The tops of omnibuses passing through Park Lane were enlivened by music and flowers covered hats. Men who passed in hansom cabs were evening dress without an overcoat.

Old earth was growing again, and if weather wise folk predicted that such an unusually high temperature meant thunderstorms and showers it would indeed be a poor heart that did not rejoice in the influences of the moment.

Two powdered and noiseless footmen threw open the door as Philip appeared in the hall. He stood for a little while in the entrance buttoning his gloves. A strong electric light—his firm face and splendidly proportioned frame.

He cast a critical eye on a sleek horse in the shafts and smiled pleasantly at the driver.

"Good gracious, Wale," he said, "your cattle are becoming as fat as yourself!"

"All your fault, sir," was the cheerful reply. "You don't use 'em 'arf enough."

"I can't pass my time in being driven about town to reduce the weight of my coachman and horses, Wale, if you don't do something desperate there will be an 'h' after the 'w' in your name."

He sprang into the vehicle. With a lively "Kim up!" Wale got his stout steed into a remarkably fast trot.

A tall man who had been loitering and smoking beneath the trees across the road for a long time sauntered toward a tradesman's cart which was standing near the area gate of the next house while the man in charge gossiped with a kitchenmaid.

"Beg pardon!" he said to the couple. "Is that Mr. Philip Anson's place?" with an indignant jerk of his thumb.

"Yes," said the man.

"An' was that Mr. Anson himself who drove away in a private cab?"

"Yes," said the girl.

"Thank!" It does one good to see a young chap like him so jolly and comfortable and provided with everything he can want in the world, eh?"

"I wish I 'ad a bit of 'is little lot," sighed the green-grocer's assistant, with a side glance at the maid.

The stranger laughed harshly.

"It's hard to say when you're well off," he growled. "Tip one day and down the other. You never know your luck."

Away he went southward. His long visit on the pavement near the railings seemed to have ended. In Piccadilly he took an omnibus to the Circus and there changed to another for the Elephant and Castle.

He walked rapidly through the congeries of mean streets which lie to the east of that bustling center and passed at last before a house which was occupied by respectable people, judging by the cleanly curtains and general air of tidiness.

He knocked. A woman appeared. Did Mrs. Mason live there? No. She knew nothing of her. Had only been in the place eighteen months.

The man evidently appreciated the migratory habits of the poor too well to dream of prosecuting further inquiries among the neighbors. He strolled about, reading the names over the small shops, the corner public house, the dressmakers' semi-private residences.

At last he paused before a somewhat grim establishment—an undertaker's office. He entered. A youth was whistling the latest music hall song.

"Do you know anything of a Mrs. Mason who used to live in this locality about ten years ago?" he asked.

"Mrs. Mason? There may be forty Mrs. Masons. What was her Christian name and address?"

"Mrs. Hannah Mason, 14 Frederick street."

The youth skillfully tilted back his stool until he reached a ledger from a shelf behind him. He ran his eye down an index, found a number and pulled out another book.

"We buried her on the 20th of November, nine years since," he said coolly, rattling both tomes back into their places.

"You did, eh? Is there anybody here who remembers her?"

Something in the husky voice of this stark, ill-favored man caused the boy to become less pert.

"Father's in," he said. "Till ring for him."

Father came. He had a vague memory of the woman, a widow with two children—boys, he thought. Somebody helped her in her last days and paid for the funeral—paid cash, according to the ledger. He did not know who the friend was nor had he any knowledge of the children's fate. Workhouse, most probably. What workhouse? Parish of Southwark. Easy to find. Just turn so-and-so, and so-and-so.

With a grunt of acknowledgment the inquirer passed into the street. He gave an eye to the public house, but resolutely quickened his pace. At the workhouse he succeeded, with some difficulty, in interviewing the master. It was after office hours, but as he had journeyed a long way an exception would be made in his case.

Books were consulted to ascertain the fate of two boys, John and William Mason, who would now be aged twenty and eighteen respectively. Youthful Masons had certainly been in the schools—one was there at the moment, in fact—but none of them answered to the description supplied. The workhouse master was sorry. The records gave no clue.

Again the man sought the dark seclusion of the street. He wandered slowly toward a main thoroughfare and entered the first public house he encountered. He ordered a pennyworth of brandy and drank it at a gulp. Then he lit a pipe and went forth again.

"That was an ugly lookin' customer," said an habitude to the barman.

"E 'ad a idee like a fifth act at the Surrey," agreed the other.

If they knew the toast that Jocky Mason had pledged so readily, they would have better grasped the truth of this unfavorable diagnosis of his character.

"Ten years' penal servitude, four years' police supervision, my wife dead and my children lost, all through a snafu on the head given me by Philip Anson," he commended. "There's to getting even with him!"

It was a strange outcome of his long imprisonment that the man should have acquired a fair degree of culture. He was compelled to learn to fail to a certain extent, and reading soon became a pleasure to him. Moreover, he picked up an acquaintance with a smooth spoken mate of the swell nobles, Mason's great strength and indomitable courage appealed to the more artistic if more effeminate rogue. Once the big man saved his comrade's life when they were at work in the quarries.

The influence was mutual. They vowed lasting friendship. Victor Greiner was released six months before Mason, and the latter now crossed the river again to go to an address where he would probably receive some news of his professional ally's whereabouts.

Greiner's name was inquired under inviolable confidence as that which he would adopt after his release. His real name, by which he was convicted, was something far less aristocratic.

Philip's driver, being of the peculiar type of Londoner which seems to be created to occupy the dicky of a hansom, did not take his master down Park Lane, along Piccadilly, and so to Pall Mall. He loved corners. Give him the remotest chance of following a zigzag course and he would follow it in preference to a route with all the directness of a Roman road.

Thus it happened as he spun round Carlos place into Berkeley square he nearly collided with another vehicle which dashed into the square from Davies street.

Both horses pulled up with a jerk. There was a sharp fusillade of what cabmen call "lan'widge," and the other hansom drove on, having the best of the strategical position by a stolen yard.

Philip lifted the trapdoor.

FARMERS ARE ALSO MINERS.

One Tailing From Old Camps Put on Lands Now Worth Thousands of Dollars.

Helena, Mont., July 3.—Ranchmen living along Canyon creek, a few miles northwest of Helena, have another occupation which they pursue each season, and in many cases the returns far exceed those secured from the farming operations. The second operation is mining, and the farmers are now getting ready to open up for this season, and on account of the unusual supply of water splendid results anticipated.

During the rainy days of the Gloster mine, near Marysville, when $8,000,000 worth of gold was taken out of the property, the cyanide process was not known, and the rich tailings were allowed to run down the creek and over the land of farmers. It has been estimated that $4,000,000 went down the creek in the slime. Much land was ruined by the tailings, and suits were brought against the company for damages. There was one farmer who put in several days across the creek on his ranch and allowed the tailings to run all over the place. The other farmers laughed at him and called him crazy.

He himself did not know why he allowed the muck to ruin his ranch, except, as he explained to another farmer, he had an intuition that it would all come out right in the end.

When the cyanide process was discovered this man built a number of settling tanks on his place, and it is said, cleared up nearly $100,000.

The Gloster has not been operated since 1888 to any extent, but the farmers are still operating their cyanide tanks. Every ranch on Canyon creek on which the tailings were deposited is worth more than the ranch without the tailings.

The story is told that several years ago a former Chicago policeman came out to Canyon creek and bought a ranch on time for $6,000. As soon as he took possession he built some cyanide tanks, and in three months had paid for the ranch and had some money in bank in addition.

There are a number of Helena persons who have made good cleanups from the tailings of the Gloster, and it is currently reported that one Helena man cleaned up $50,000 from handling them.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN was a man who, against all odds, attained the highest honor a man could get in the United States. Every mother should keep supplied with this wonderful cough medicine. Sold by all druggists.

Good Morning. The baby lies With hands outspread, And yellow ringlets Round her head Curled close, and rosy Finger tips, And close shut eyes, And coral lips, And peach blow cheeks, And rounded wrist, And dimples where The fays have kissed Each knuckle coax And coax me, till I stoop above her, Willy nil, And kiss her chin And yellow hair, And her pink palms; And stand and stare At her until She seems to feel The greatness of My loving steal From my heart, where I gazing stand, To her 'way off In slumberland; For with a start She's wide awake, And, arms outstretched, Says, "Papa, take!"

And do I take? I think I do! And snuggle her Up to me, too! And kiss her brow And cheek and chin, And with my kisses Burrow in Her neck beneath Her nearest ear, And kiss her till She very near Goes wild, and coos And wriggles so Sometimes I nearly Let her go; And then, perched On my shoulder high, She wriggles and says, "Papa, by!" And so we tiptoe Down the stairs And catch her Mother unawares, And she gets snuggled To the breast Of mamma dear And washed and dressed, And mounts her high chair With delight, And one more day Has started right.

LOWER CAL.

MAY BE PURCHASED BY U. S. FROM MEXICO.

Magdalena Bay Would Be Important for Use in Pacific Naval Maneuvers.

Washington D. C., July 8.—As a result of the decision to dispatch the North Atlantic fleet to the Pacific ocean an effort is being made to acquire additional territory from Mexico for use as a naval station.

Reports were current today that overtures had been made to Mexico with a view to the purchase by this government of the entire peninsula of the lower California, a territory having an area of about 60,000 square miles. The proposition contemplates the acquisition of Magdalena bay, a magnificent sheet of water lying on the Pacific coast of the peninsula and the territory surrounding it. Magdalena bay has been used for years by American squadrons as a drill ground and for target practice. It is an ideal base for naval operations, and with the great battleship fleet in the Pacific, will be badly needed.

Two Railroads Bring 127 Trains in Paducah

Greatly Increased Volume of Business Due To Growing Commercial Activity.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL.
Passenger trains	15
Freight trains	104
Total	119
N. C. & S. L.
Passenger trains	4
Freight trains	4
Total	8

Business statistics show Paducah to be one of the best railroad towns in the country for her size. Sunday was the biggest day the Illinois Central has ever experienced at this season for freight traffic, and 104 trains were run in and out of Paducah yesterday. Every available crew was called into service to handle the business, and few regular men are laying off, and nearly every extra crew is being worked. There were 53 freight trains into Paducah and 51 out. Switch engines were puffing throughout the day moving freight cars as fast as they were brought in. The extra traffic is due to growing commercial activity in the north and south. Most of the business is being done over the Louisville and Tennessee divisions, and a great deal of business heretofore not felt here, comes in from the Nashville and Evansville divisions.

The 104 freight and the regular passenger trains on the Illinois Central, numbering 15, and the regular freight and passenger trains on the N. C. road, gave Paducah a total of 127 trains in and out of the city yesterday.

Somewhere between Paducah and Nashville, the Electra broke its shaft, word to that effect being received here this morning.
The J. B. Richardson has quit the Evansville and Nashville trade and is laid up at Nashville. The Richardson sent its freight trip down on the Joe Fowler to the Dunbar here.
The Reuben Dunbar came in Sunday night from Nashville and left at noon today for the same point. Only one trip will be made this week.
Stanley Furell resigned from the Dick Fowler as third clerk and has accepted the same berth on the Dunbar.

Gent's showboat is on the market. It is lying up in the mouth of the Tennessee river.

The Bernice arrived from Rosi Clare yesterday to get repairs and probably will be lifted out on the dry docks. It is a distinction of the Bernice that the pilot house is in front of the smokestacks.

Several hundreds of colored persons were brought up on the Three States from Cairo yesterday after spending several joyous hours here. They left at 5:30 o'clock. It is the first visit of the Three States in fifteen months.

Harry Robertson, third clerk on the Joe Fowler, is able to walk with-

BARN BURNS

MR. ELI G. BOONE LOSES VEHICLES AND FEED.

Saves His Horse But Damages Will Aggregate $800, Fully Covered.

Fire starting from an unknown cause between 8 and 9 o'clock Saturday evening, destroyed the big stable in the rear of Mr. Eli G. Boone's residence, 308 South Sixth street, and with it three sets of harness, a phaeton and surrey with a lot of feed and other stuff. The total loss is estimated by Mr. Boone at $800 fully covered by insurance.

The hose wagons, from Nos. 1, 3 and 4 stations, answered the alarm, but the flames had gained too great a headway. Mr. Boone had just returned home when some one passing the alley discovered the blaze. He had only enough time to save his horse. The loss is apportioned as follows: Surrey, $225; phaeton, $200; harness, $50; stable and other contents, $325.

RAILROAD NOTES

Engineer Ambrose Mercer, who has been on the Illinois Central Paducah and Princeton accommodation passenger runs, last night left for Louisville to learn the division and take out the No. 101 and 102 passenger trains. He will take the place of Engineer Joe Pierce, who will go back to night runs. No assignment to the Paducah and Princeton run has been made.

Saturday afternoon traffic both to trains and vehicles was impeded by several derailed cars at the Tennessee street crossing of the Illinois Central. The local wrecker was called into service to replace the cars. One hour and a half was required to clear the track and street.

Mr. J. R. Rutter, of Evansville, has been appointed to succeed Time-keeper P. D. Finley, of the Illinois Central master mechanic's office, and went to work this morning.

This morning Mr. Den Harper went to work as material accountant in the master mechanic's office of the Illinois Central, succeeding Mr. Bell Given who has gone to St. Louis. E. L. Sargeant had succeeded Mr. Harper as time-keeper in the boiler shops.
